

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Brownstone Security Launches LinkedIn Page

Page features personnel, company information, and networking opportunities

(Redondo Beach, CA—September 4, 2009...) Brownstone Security, a leading provider of security services and video surveillance systems, has joined the business networking site LinkedIn to better connect with industry colleagues, customers, and past employees, as well as to showcase the company's blogs.

Shane Pryor, business development manager, says, "Brownstone's LinkedIn page will enable customers and clients to access important information on company personnel and news. It is also a good opportunity to remain cognizant on industry news and topics."

Brownstone Security's LinkedIn page will present the company's blogs, which cover topics including physical security, loss prevention, video surveillance software and hardware, and other related topics. In addition the page will list employment opportunities and possibilities to apply via LinkedIn for those positions. All are welcome to visit the LinkedIn page.

Brownstone Security launched its Facebook page as well as its MySpace page, and is planning to expand its online presence in 2009 on other social networking sites including Twitter.
